

"Epic Living Through

Creative Play"

Career Coaching for Millennial Job Seekers

Lucy Claire Curran

As a Harvard-educated artist, writer, performer, speaker, and career coach, Lucy Claire Curran's mission is to help idealistic young professionals rediscover their passion and purpose so that they can find and thrive in careers that make their hearts sing. Her unique angle emphasizes marrying the head and the heart.

Living in San Francisco, Lucy Claire pursues art as a means of civic engagement, political activism, and philosophical inquiry.

Lucy Claire also hosts "Body and Soul Career Night" workshops in the San Francisco area, where gentle and rejuvenating body care meets practical and grounded tools to jumpstart the next phase of your professional life.

Speaking Topics:

- Why many people fear the uncertainty of navigating the job market so much they stay in unsatisfying jobs for years.
- "Challenging experiences" can be the galvanizing wake up call that helps you rediscover your passion & purpose - in your career and in life.
- Practice patience and find ways to play so you can have fun and enjoy the process of finding the right job.
- How to keep your inspiration alive and your sense of adventure fresh and present when you're tired of sending out resumes and scheduling interviews!

Where Lucy Speaks:

- Community Centers
- Co-Working Spaces
- Universities
- Job Fairs and Career Centers
- Yoga Studios
- Non-Profit Organizations

(415) 295-2690

lucy@lucyclairecurran.com

www.lucyclairecurran.com

www.bodyandsoulcareernight.com